"CREAM ALE" LIKE BEER

But Contains More Alcohol Says Analysis Made In Louisville Recently By Chemist.

VIOLATORS TO BE PROSECUTED.

The samples of beverages sold by Cloverport and West Point firms as "Cream of Hops" and other misleading names, and analyzed through the efforts of commonwealth's attorney Layman and county attorney Boyd, show about a half percent more of alcohol than ordinary beer.

The analysis was made by the Louisville Testing Laboratory and develops that these drinks contain from about 14 to 46 percent of alcohol.

Indictments will be returned and the parties who handle the stuff prosecuted for violation of law.

REMANDED TO STATE COURTS

Is Caleb Powers' Case--United States Supreme Court Wont Act On It.

OPINION WAS UNANIMOUS

Washington, March 12.—In an opinion by Justice Harlan, the Supreme Court this afternoon held that there was nothing shown in the case of Caleb Powers which warranted the Federal Court taking charge of it.

The case is remanded to the State courts, and Powers will be tried for the fourth time in the court in which he was three times convicted as an accessory before the fact of the murder of William Goodell. The decision was unanimous.

THE TAYLOR PARDON.

In discussing the case at length Justice Harlan indicated that after the final adjudication of the case it might come to the Federal courts upon a writ of error, if the right of the defendant should be denied. Justice Harlan said that the question of the validity of the Taylor pardon could not be considered by the court here at this time, as even if the pardon was valid, that would not beg round for transfer under Section 641.

Revival Day.

The annual revival meeting of the M. E. church will begin May 1. The assistant to Rev. B. M. Currie, the pastor, has been announced.

Spring Medicine

There is no other season when good medicine is so much needed as in the Spring.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Make the blood pure, vigorous and rich, create appetite, give vitality, strength and animation, and cure all eruptions. Have the whole family begin to take them today.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla has been used in my family for some time, and always with results. Last spring I was all run down and got a bottle of it, and as usual got great benefit." Miss Bessie E. Brown, Va.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to keep the promise.

TO BEGIN WORK ON NEW R. R.

By Spring--But Little Trouble in Securing Right-of-Way Over Entire Route.

CONSTRUCTION BIDS INVITED.

George W. Fagan, chief engineer of the Madisonville, Hartford and Eastern Railroad was here Thursday says the Madisonville Hustler for the purpose of making his last trip over the proposed route. Mr. Fagan after making the tour will invite responsible construction companies to bid on the construction work and it is the belief that it will be but a short time until the contracts are all let and the actual work of construction underway.

H. E. Holeman, one of the prime movers in the movement to build the road is more than pleased with the progress that is being made and made the statement Thursday that the road was assured. When the company first began to take up rights of way it was predicted that many people over whose land the road passed would bitterly oppose giving the company a right-of-way. Mr. Holeman said Thursday that he had experienced but little trouble in closing the deals for the right-of-way over practically the entire route. He does not think there will be a single instance in which the company will be forced to go to court with condemnation proceedings. The right-of-way is now almost virtually complete and there will be nothing in the way of construction commences.

It is hoped by the promoters to have everything in readiness to commence work early in the spring.

Attended With Rheumatism.

"I was and am yet afflicted with rheumatism," says Mr. J. C. Bayne, editor of the Herald, Addington, Indiana Territory, "but thanks to Chamberlain's Pain Balm an able one more to attend to business. It is the best of liniments." If troubled with rheumatism give Pain Balm a trial and you are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. One application relieves the pain. For sale by Short & Haynes, Cloverport.

Shelburn Tipped For Treasurer.

Frankfort, Ky., March 2.—Never a legislative session does without leaving as a result of its sitting numerous of its members who, pleased with a brief time at the capital, would like to come back for four years' service in one of the other of the State Departments, and the present session is to furnish no exception. The record which Ed H. Shelburn of Breckinridge county, made as chairman of the Appropriations Committee, in stirring rights upon the bill in the matter of the bills proposing to carry money out of the State Treasury, until it became apparent that the revenues of the Commonwealth are to be increased, has caused many of his friends to pat him upon the back and ask him if he would not like to become Treasurer of the State. Such suggestion makes a fellow feel good, and it has had this effect upon the genial gentleman from Breckinridge. He is in the banking business at home, so is fitted to assume the duties of Treasurer, even of a big State, and likes very much the small taste he has had of public life.

Has Pneumonia.

Mr. Ben McCoy, of Bewleyville, is very sick with pneumonia.

One would think the Laxative idea in a cough syrup should have been advanced long before it was. It seems the only rational remedy for Coughs and Colds would be to move the bowels and clean the mucous membranes of the throat and lungs at the same time. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar does this. It is the Original Laxative Cough Syrup, the best known remedy for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, etc. Tastes good and harmless. Sold by all druggists.

FARMERS' MEETING.

We are informed from the headquarters of the American Society of Equity at Indianapolis, Ind., that a meeting will be held at Greenville, Ky. April 16th and 17th, 1906 to organize a territorial association of said society.

This is a farmers' organization and its chief object is to secure profitable prices for all farm crops—to raise prices when they are too low, and to maintain them, when equitable. It is the original advocate of "Controlled Marketing" by farmers to compel fair prices and it claims a large degree of the credit for the revolution that has been worked in marketing crops the last few years, and which is responsible for the better prices for crops that have prevailed.

March 1st, it called a strike of the grain producers against the declining prices and has prepared a circular containing figures and facts showing why farmers should strike, and a strong argument why they can win. This circular is before us and the figures are truly revelations. They show that a few million bushels of grain, called "Visible Supply" (which is really a temporary surplus, influence the price on hundreds, or thousands, of millions of bushels representing the farmers' total crop. It is contended that a little more control by farmers will eliminate this "Visible Supply", or keep it very small, when prices can be made right and kept right.

The arguments presented in this circular are the strongest arraignment against the old system of price making by speculation we have ever seen. A general invitation to all farmers is extended, all members of the society are urged to attend, and Local Unions are expected to send delegates.

HON. BEN JOHNSON, CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS, SKETCH OF HIS LIFE AND PURPOSES.

Hon. Ben Johnson, present State Senator from Nelson county, and the next Congressional Representative from the Fourth district of Kentucky: The withdrawal of Hon. D. H. Smith from the contest, is formally announced in a letter read at a meeting of the Fourth district Congressional Committee, held at the Old Inn in Louisville Feb. 19, called for the purpose of determining the time place and manner of selecting the Democratic standard bearer in the next Congressional race, and also the withdrawal of several other pronounced or prospective candidates, virtually assures Mr. Johnson a clear track and a walkover for the nomination.

This is a well merited compliment to one of the worthiest and most deserving Democrats the Fourth district ever produced. The astuteness of opposition to Mr. Johnson's candidacy was, to a large extent, evidenced by the unanimity with which the various county Chairmen attending the meeting, declared their preference for him, bringing only county men, should any such announce in the future.

No one deserves this compliment more than Mr. Johnson or could better honor and credit to the district in the high position he will be called upon soon to fill. A natural leader of men, by skill and training learned, we might almost say untrained in the game of politics; brilliant intellectually, cool and level headed in times of excitement, or danger, as in the quiet hours of ease and comfort, for more than a quarter of a century, his advice has been sought and obtained in all matters concerning the welfare of his party and in every close contest his voice has been raised and heard in support of Democratic principles.

He has been the recipient of high honors heretofore at the hands of the Democratic party and in every instance has proved worthy of the trust conferred.

His record as a member of the Kentucky House of Representatives, to which he was first elected for the session of 1885-86—as speaker of that body during the following term, 1887-88—as Collector of Internal Revenue for the Fifth Revenue district of Kentucky, to which he was appointed by President Cleveland in 1893 and served till 1897. His records in the present session of the State Senate are all before the public and are as an open book. During all those years of public-service his record has been so clean and clear from fraud or semblance of wrong doing that the hand of calumny has never

The Carlton Sale.

The Carlton sale near Rosetta last Thursday was well attended by men, women and babies. There must have been a hundred women there and a fourth as many babies from 6 to 10 months. They were all fine looking healthy little tots and it would have done President Roosevelt's soul good to have seen them. There is one thing certain no signs of race suicide even dared assail it. His honesty of purpose and integrity have never been questioned. In these times when graft, chicanery and double dealing so often mar the character of public servants, such a record is one to be indeed proud of. Coupled with Ben Johnson's purity of character is another element the people, especially Democrats, love and admire, that is firmness and positiveness. You can always place him on any question. If he is for a measure or a man, he is always openly so, and it usually takes but a short time to find out how he stands. A stand once taken on any important matter is usually final with him. The knowledge and experience so acquired admirably equips him for the campaign on which he will soon enter.

Ben Johnson began his political career by serving as a page in the State Senate at the session in 1874-75 when quite a small boy, and from that time has been a close student and observer as well as usually an active participant in Kentucky politics and history. The knowledge and experience so acquired admirably equips him for the campaign on which he will soon enter.

As soon as the present session of the Legislature is over it is Mr. Johnson's purpose and intention to enter upon an active canvass of the district and in the various counties, where a warm welcome awaits him. After he has been formally declared the nominee which will be in May, as now seems certain he will then be ready to meet any opponent the Republicans may see fit to place in the field against him. Those who know his clean, clear logical style of oratory have no fears as to the result. He will bear the Democratic standard to victory and no Democrats will ever have cause to regret their choice in that contest.

Whilst Mr. Johnson is so thoroughly equipped politically to fill the high position to which he will be chosen, he is equally qualified to fill the same socially.

Easy graceful and well possessed, personally he will be ably assisted by a charming wife, three lovely and accomplished daughters just merging into womanhood, all of whom are musicians of the highest order and culture. They will add to the reputation and fame of Kentucky women now so well established in Washington society and be gladly welcomed by the Kentucky contingent in that great and beautiful city.

It was a fine sale everything brought good prices and sold quickly. Dave Henry was the auctioneer and says it was the best sale he has ever had in a long time. Mr. Carlton and his family are very popular in that community and they hate to see him go.

The Ben Dorell farm was sold to R. M. Dorell for $1465 cash, 107 acres. Mr. Dorell has sold the Ben Dorell farm which he purchased recently of W. C. Kasey for $2650.

EX-GOV. CRITTENDEN'S ADDRESS

At Great "Home-Coming" Meeting in Louisville--Refers to His Native
Town, Cloverport, And Says

"GOD BLESS THE LITTLE TOWN."

The following address was made by Ex-Gov. Tom Crittenden, of Missouri, formerly of Cloverport, before the great "Home-Coming" meeting at the Galt House in Louisville on Tuesday night of last week.

"I heard the address tonight of Judge Sims with peculiar pleasure. It almost made me feel sorry or regretful that I ever left the State of Kentucky to go even to as great a State as Missouri, which is, or has been, truly termed 'The Elder Daughter of this State'; but at the same time, whilst it produced this feeling of sadness that I departed from its limits many, many years ago, it has fully compensated me for having done so when I came back here tonight and witnessed the scene that has stirred my very heart and soul to the very bottom. And then, I see so many of the old citizens of the State, assembled here with the view of adopting some plan or plans by which to welcome its wandering sons and daughters who have gone from its midst, some twenty, some thirty, some fifty, and some sixty years ago.

"When I was coming here, I have a half brother at whose home I am staying, as a guest, I suppose a free guest, and he said:

"I want to give you a piece of advice before you go to that meeting. Don't talk too much about Kentucky, I said.

"What are you going to have me get up before that splendid audience of people, Kentuckians, and have me talk about everything but Kentucky?"

Speaks For Kentucky.

"What would you think of a minister who would get up and preach everything but God and Christ and Him crucified? What would you think of a young man falling in love with a handsome Kentucky lady who would talk to her about everything but his own sweetheart? I said if this is the last act of life I am going to speak for Kentucky tonight. I have had more trouble all my life with that boy than Peck ever had with his bad boy. When we were growing up together at Cloverport, and God bless the little town, he said to me one day in a spirit of anger:

"Tom, you or I, one or the other, will have to leave Kentucky. This town and this county and this State is not large enough for both of us, and as you are the younger of the two, you will have to get up and get."

"I took him at his word and I left the State, and while in speech respect I have regretted it, as I said before, in many I have not.

"Now, the question arises, and it is a material question, it is one of business, what are you going to do with us when we come here? How many do you suppose are coming? Where are these wandering children of Kentucky coming from? From North, East, South and West, they will come and come with the expectation that you will give them just such a welcome as Kentucky can always give to the strangers within her gates, and more especially to a wandering son or daughter.

Have Big Job

"You are going to have a bigger job on your hands than you ever had before. Let me assure you of that fact, provided the railroads will make such rates as will be acceptable to the people who want to come. The disposition is to come, but it is not every body that can pay exorbitant rates to come on a week or, two week's spree, such as it would be here, and when I say spree, I do not mean an intertempore spree, but one of eating, and of loving the old spots from which they came, and of loving the old graveyards where are buried their loved dead. If those roads will give us one-cent a mile we will fill your town full from collar to garret, and from back gate to front gate, and we will make you proud of your invitation or tired of the crowd that has come.

"I don't know whether there is an officer of any railroad running in or out of Louisville here, but let me say to you people in all earnestness that we are not coming here merely to visit Louisville. That is a great desideratum I admit for when you get here you are within the gates of the greatest emporium of your State; but we will be overjoyed to pay any price to get outside of your city to again visit the old counties from which we came.

As to Railroads

"What are the roads coming into Louisville going to do? There is a big lot of us born out in the State, and you must remember there are comparatively few that were born in the city of Louisville. There is not one coming who don't want to go back to the counties in which they were born, and from which they departed when they were children or young people. Now, will the roads running in here be a generous as those roads which come to you?

"There are a great many people in my State, Judge Sims, who are from your county. They want to return to the old county and drink from the old fountains and the old springs, and wallow in the old ponds of which you have been speaking.

Born in Shelby.

"I was born in Shelby county, within thirty or forty miles of your city on a place now owned by Harry Weisinger, a splendid fellow, and I said today: 'Harry, I want to visit the old farm and see the old spot where I was born. I am told you have torn down the old house where my father and mother lived and where I and other members of the family were born. I want to see it for nothing but to breathe here and will die before I will leave. Will you permit me to do so?'

"Yes, I will if you don't bring any heavily Missouri politicians along with you," I said.

"No we are not coming as politicians. We have all been reading what the preachers have been saying in your last campaign of brotherly love on a reformation of all the evils of politics, and we are coming back with that spirit, and no politicians will be among us, but we will be all patriots, we will all be Kentuckians from head to foot, and we will all be old spots where we were born, and the old counties from which we came."

"Well, he said, 'If you are coming with that kind of spirit, I will administer that myself.' I said to him Harry, there is one thing that we Kentuckians have shared greatly since we left the State. I have never had the pleasure of attending a Burgoe since I have been in the State of Missouri, a Burgoe such as they get in this State, and I would like to have one here in Louisville, and if you have one we will not turn our backs on it." He said: 'I will give the crowd that goes to Shelby county a Burgoe, and I will rejoice when you come and be glad when you're gone.'

"Now gentlemen, somebody may be curious to know what compensation Kentucky will have for bringing this immense crowd of people within its gates and within your houses. That is the very lowest estimate and the very lowest estimate and the very lowest way to look at this thing. That never enters the mind of a Kentuckian, my friend, Engelhard never. We will compensate a thousand ways that you know not of. You may take even upon the lowest estimate of dollars and cents, and bring one hundred thousand people here, and if the roads are reasonable—I want to beat that into my friend Brown's head—he will give you a larger crowd than one hundred thousand people.

"Suppose each one spends $25. Look at it for a moment. That is a low estimate for the amount to be spent when you are in Louisville. I can prove that by Judge Sims. Think of that. Twenty-five times one hundred thousand will make $3,500,000. Now look at it in another aspect. That money is turned over so rapidly from hotels to bars and from bar rooms to barber shops, and from barber shops to stores, and from stores to Logan Murray's bank that it will be equivalent to one million dollars that we will spend here in your midst.

Big Stick for the Railroads.

"Now, I am not in favor of this wild legislation against railroads. I am reminded of a little thing that took place down at Cloverport where Logan Murray lived. I don't know whether he recognizes the fact or not. There were two Germans fighting, Black Dutchmen we call them, and one had the other down, and some men rushed up and said: 'Uncle George, don't hurt him.' 'No I am not going to hurt him, but I have determined he shan't hurt me.' So we are not going to hurt the railroads if the railroads don't hurt us. If they do, Congress is in session and the President has his big stick, and what he will do with them I don't know.

"Mr. President and gentlemen, before closing permit me to say I am deeply gratified by this reception extended more from the kindness of your own natures than in the merit I possess. I receive it as a splendid compliment to the great State from which I come, whose population is composed largely of Kentuckians, whose hearts have been gladdened by your generous invitation to come home once again as your guests, to tread with eager feet the old soil of the counties from which they came and to call the more vividly the old loved faces long since passed to their reward.

"I am a Missourian by adoption, a long residence of nearly fifty years within its borders, because it has been good to me and honored me greatly. I have no desire to leave its generous soil and its generous people. I am a native-born Kentuckian with all the love that language implies. Its people have been my people, and its God my God. Save one, those dearest to me are buried in its graves, and that alone is enough to draw me to it with all the love of an ardent and true native. I desire to see Kentucky once again in every honorable enterprise, whether individual, local, State or national, feeling and believing that what adds glory or happiness to it gives a part to every one born on its soil, whether they be now on Green land's icy mountains or Africa's golden sands.

"Kentucky is right in commerce, it is right in religion, it is right in its social qualities, it is right in its wonderful beauties, yet its politics in the language of one of its brilliant men, is the damndest, still they are Kentucky politics and gentlemen, spared here and will die before I will leave their worshipers none ever like them before, and none will ever be like them hereafter.

"But, with all its faults, I love the old State with a deep love of childhood, though I have long since passed that age, and with a love which has matured into manhood and old age. There is no place like Kentucky. There never has been any place like Kentucky, and there never will be any place like Kentucky. In other words, Kentucky is Kentucky, and it can be nothing else, and to undertake to make it anything else would be like repeating the lily or refining the gold. President Roosevelt, in his 'Winning of the West,' shows that Kentucky was a nursery both for the bone and sinew and brain, and in planting from even Louisville to the tip of the great Pacific, all which you will find of the best today.

"You have called us to come in June, when the roses are sweetest, when the sun is brightest, when the moon is the most silvery, when the stars are the most glorious, when all nature is purest, when your music is the softest, and we are coming to sing from ten thousand times ten thousand throats, the pathetic song of the dead poet who has made, if possible, the name of Kentucky more illustrious and its name, by association and illustration, illustrious a household word in every State in the Union.

"Let not Kentucky forget Stephen C. Foster. Songs, as well as laws, make a State great. Man once said: 'Let me write the songs; I care not who makes the laws.' Permit me to say you could build no greater monument to him in marble, brass or silver than he has built for himself in writing this great song; but still there should be one erected on the very spot on which the song was written which should ever, from its topmost height, bid farewell to the decaying day and welcome the coming morn.

"Would I be saying too much to say to the good people, that if you do not erect the monument to Stephen C. Foster, those of us coming here in June will do so for you. Our work would then be a work of love, not a reflection upon the generosity and the appreciation of Kentucky. When we shall come, all that I can ask for on behalf of those people, is that you give them such a greeting from your warm hearts and hands as well be worthy of the great old State of Kentucky. Then, oh, then, we will remember and love you the more.

"In 1847 one of the uneducated mountaineers of Kentucky went to California in search of gold; that was a time when the whole country had been started from center to circumference by the publications that the whole State or Territory at that time, was full of gold, and all one had to do was to pick it from the trees. After this mountaineer had remained there for one or more years, working as a Kentuckian can when impelled by want and determination to make money, he gathered up the accumulation of his labors in small buckskins bags and started homeward. In one of the villages near the mine he saw two gentlemen looking at a map of our country. In his rough garb, with soiled hands and a countenance beaming with honesty, he said: 'Gentlemen, I can't read or write. I am a Kentuckian. I want to go back to the dear old State before I die; will you point it out to me on the map by placing your finger on the spot?'

"When one of them kindly did so, he stood silently for a moment, great tears trickling down the furrows of his old time worn forehead, and then said: 'Thank you gentlemen, that is God's country, and I am going back to it and will never leave it again.' These are the sentiments of a true Kentuckian. John Fox, Jr., in the sweetest of all stories, 'Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come,' uttered some of the tenderest sentiments that ever came from brain or pen, but those touching as they are, are no more touching than what the old mountaineer said, 'that is God's country and I am going back to it.' The thousands of us who will assemble here in June will give utterance to that same patriotic sentiment, with the deepest feeling and will say, Kentucky is God's country and we are for it as Kentucky is today, and we are for it as Kentucky has been in the past, and we are for it as Kentucky will be in the future."

Vinol THE COD LIVER PREPARATION WITHOUT OIL

Vinol is fast superseding old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions because, without a drop of oil or disagreeable feature, it contains all the medicinal elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cods' livers. By our process the oil, having no value either as a medicine or food, is separated from the medicinal elements and thrown away. Unlike old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions, Vinol is deliciously palatable, agreeable to the weakest stomach, and therefore unequalled as a body builder and strength creator for old people, puny children, weak, run-down men and women, after sickness, and for all pulmonary diseases. Everything Vinol contains is named on the label.

OUR GUARANTEE—We have such faith in VINOL that if you will take it we promise if it does not benefit or cure you we will return you your money without question. We take all the risk.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church closed their most successful fiscal year March 1, 1906. The report below will show that these Kentucky ladies have not been idle during the last twelve months. All meetings were held in the M. E. church.

The officers last year were: Mrs. C. B. Skillman, pres.; Mrs. Henry Gibbs, v-pres.; Mrs. James S. Younger, sec.; Mrs. Shelby Conrad, treas.

The following officers for the next fiscal year were elected at last meeting: Mrs. H. L. Stader, pres.; Mrs. W. H. Bowmer, v-pres.; Mrs. Fred Bruise, sec.; Mrs. H. A. Oelze, treas.

Total amount made last year $214.30. This amount was raised by monthly 10-cent dues, entertainments, comfort making, etc. The last more of the old year was that each member should give one dollar at the last meeting. The money to be earned in some manner. The managers were successful and it was a comfort. One member took the cooks place to make the dinner. Another washed and ironed clothes. One good lady was kind enough to let her husband snooze away the first cold mornings while she made the fire, her pay being a $1.00. One lady denied herself of a trip to Macanley's. A quiet few made the dollar by sewing. And one lady, good and true, waited on her husband for the amount of her pledge. All of this $214.30 was judiciously expended for charity purposes. The church parsonage was practically newly furnished and was repainted and repaired.

The Society has 50 members in all, and those besides the above named officers and former officers are as follows:

THOUGHTS

An independent press does more today by to crush out crime and restrain criminals than all of the organized and paid constabulary of the State; the searchlight of its investigation into the conduct of public officials is more dreaded by the corrupt and the vicious than all of the sanctions of the penal law; and as an upholder and sustainer of an enlightened public opinion it constitutes a large part of the foundation of civil liberty. Those whose faith is sufficiently optimistic to indulge a hope for the permanency of our institutions and civilization must rest it, in a large part, at least upon a confidence of the quickening influence of an untrammelled press upon the public conscience.—Judge Henry S. Barker, of the Kentucky Court of Appeals.

SYSTEMATIZE ROAD BUILDING.

In view of the Good Roads Convention to be held in Hardinsburg on Monday, March 26, it seems to us, that it would be well for the people who intend to go to this convention and set forth their views, to think of a plan to systematize the road building of the county. This deficiency has long been evident, and until it is overcome, the people will not hope to get the desired results in the making of county roads. Look to the States and counties which have good roads. We see there, system. A record of every day's work is made. A plat of the county roads shows where the labor has been expended. These counties do not allow a cart of dirt to be dumped here and there without any definite end in view. They require subordinates to work according to plans and orders from the county supervisors. The supervisor then is responsible for all of the county's roads, good or bad. The results of such a system are very beneficial to the people. The tax-payer can at once see how and where his money was spent. Every community, under this system, gets an equal amount of the benefit of the road tax. No roads are worked merely for political gain. Everything is accounted for.

The tax-payer will have a say at the convention at Hardinsburg, and this is right. No man is willing to vote to raise taxes higher when he sees that the present road tax receipts are being thrown to the winds. The tax-payer will not vote for an increased road tax unless you show him a plan whereby the road-tax money will benefit the condition of the county roads, and he is right. There is not a more ardent believer in good roads in Breckenridge county than the editor of the News, but we should like to see the money collected as road tax put to some avail, and the News is not in favor of higher road taxes unless a method or a system is devised and put in operation whereby this money will be judiciously expended, and not thrown into the hands of incompetent county politicians through appointments as remuneration for putting a county clerk, a sheriff, a judge, a school superintendent or some man in office.

"BACK TO THE FARM."

William Borsodi, editor of "The National Advertiser," of New York, has gone to considerable pains to prepare an open letter to the Hon. James Wilson, Secretary of Agriculture, on the "Crying Need of the Country" which he deems it to keep the "Farmer Boys on the Farm." The News is disposed to agree with Col. Borsodi on this important question. We believe our boys in Breckenridge and sister counties should be encouraged to remain on the old homestead farm rather than to leave it and go to the city. Instead of the father or the mother, who are perhaps sickened and disheartened because of their failure to draw from the hills and valleys the glories and comforts of life, picturing to their boy the glowing possibilities of a prosperous life in the city, as they may think, should picture to the boys' youthful mind the independence, the prestige and power of the successful farmer. Remind your boy of Washington's words when he said that farming was the "noblest occupation of man." Teach him to study farming from a scientific viewpoint as well as a practical one. Let the young man study the soil, its possibilities and its failures. Encourage the young man by remunerating him with cash for his services as he would be paid in the employ of a city corporation or company. Do not run down the farm but run it up, and then the boy will cling to the old homestead as his most valuable heritage. He will profit by his father's failures and by the knowledge he has attained by study, and make the old home a home of which he and his wife will be proud.

PAYING THE PENALTY.

ELIZABETHTOWN has saloons, this is the result, read:

A cold blooded, premeditated murder occurred in this city at the home of Mr. Chas. T. Warren Saturday night, when Henry Whittaker, while under the influence of liquor, deliberately shot and instantly killed his wife, Susan Whittaker, because she refused to live with him.—Elizabethtown Mirror.

And yet some men will say that local option is a farce, and about the same condition of affairs exist without saloons as with them. The above is just one of the many cases to illustrate the degradation wrought by saloons upon any community. Below is a clipping from the Elizabethtown News which goes further to illustrate this same point:

"Saturday was a red letter day in the Police Court. There were nineteen arrests, nine for crap playing, one for the destruction of property, two for running horses on the streets, three for drunkenness, two for swearing on the streets, one for carrying a razor and one for murder. The city has been comparatively quiet since Christmas, and the outbreak Saturday was a surprise to the city officials."

This is the penalty Elizabethtown is paying for an open saloon, and which Cloverport will pay if the voters of this good little town allow the saloon to enter within her gates. But we have too much confidence in the intelligence, the manhood, the Christian citizenship of our beloved city to think that the saloon will be legally invited here on May 5.

LET US GIVE THANKS.

Yesterday was the fifth anniversary of an event in Cloverport's history which needs not to be named to bring it to the minds of our people. This event is so indelibly stamped in our memory that nothing but the last summons will erase it. Our minds reflect and this awful catastrophe is as vivid as if it happened but yesterday. We see how our life's efforts were swept away in a few hours, and how we fought ruin and almost financial failure, and how we struggled and worked together in order to live in comfort again in the place our father had settled. Why did we not turn disheartened on the great heap of ashes and set our heads toward the Golden West and make our abode there? Why did we not go to the evergreens of Florida or to the fertile soil about the Great Lakes? It was because we loved home, Cloverport and Kentucky. This is why our people staid and built houses on the ashes of their life's efforts and began over again, five years ago.

It is hard for us to see but it was all for the best. Let us give thanks unto the Lord that our lives were spared and for the five years of peace and prosperity in which we have lived since 1901. Let us give thanks unto the Lord.

The following is the result of the first day's work of the Hardin county grand jury.

Murder, 1; furnishing liquor to persons in habit of becoming intoxicated, 17; furnishing liquor to minor, 3. These indictments were all the result of the first day's work of the grand jury, and is an unusual number for the first day. This Thursday there will be about nine more indictments returned.—Elizabethtown Mirror.

A busy, successful publisher has little time in which to "back-cap" his contemporaries. It is generally the fellow who is having a tussle with "can't get there" that does the knocking. A sufficient quantity of knocking always brings sympathy to the knocked.—News-papierman.

The Rothchild's family is said to be the richest family in the world. The total wealth of all being $48,500,000. The money was made in the banking business and no scandal is charged in the accumulation of their Enormous fortune. The family, it is said, lives a modest life.

The Legislature passed a bill to allow school teachers their salary for the week in which they attend county institutes, provided their respective schools are in session at the time the institute meets.

We Cloverporters are proud of our Ex-Gov. Tom Crittenden. Read his speech. Then think of the days when he walked about Cloverport a barefooted boy. Breckenridge county has her share of "big men."

There are just 7,017 saloons in Chicago. This accounts for Chicago's reputation of being one of the most wicked cities on the face of the earth.

Don't neglect to take advantage of our combination offer giving the News, one year, and Farm Journal, five years, for $1.

A SPECIAL from Hardinsburg says that Judge Henry DeHaven Moorman is thinking of marrying. Congratulations.

The Mayor and City Council are to be congratulated upon their success in securing electric lights for Cloverport.

BRECKENRIDGE county ought to have a "Home-coming" day. Let the Commercial Club take this matter up.

Go to the Good Roads Convention and lend your help.

The Legislature adjourned yesterday.

Didn't Know why He Tapped Car Wheels.

The inefficiency of Mexican labor was under discussion by a group of mining promoters.

On my last trip to Mexico," said one, "while our train halted at Jimuleo, a dinner station on the Mexican Central, I alighted and watched the mechanic who went from car to car sounding the wheels with a hammer, presumably to test their condition. He was a fair type of the native 'skilled' workman. Just to draw him out I inquired:

"Why do you rap the wheels?"

"Setting down his torch, he stared at me in amazement. 'Because the master mechanic tells me to be replied. 'But why?' I persisted. 'What good does it do?' I do not know, Senior," said he. The master mechanic tells me to strike each wheel and I do so. That is enough for me.

"How long have you been working at this job?" I asked.

"Two years," he replied. "For two years he had been going through the form of sounding the car wheels without the slightest knowledge of the object of the test or the slightest curiosity concerning it!" —Philadelphia Record.

"YOUNG MAN, LET WHISKY ALONE"

Says Mr. J. E. Keith—Six of His Companions Have Died Drunkards,

THO HE EATS 70th BIRTHDAY DINNER.

"Let whisky alone, young man," are the words of Mr. J. E. Keith, who ate his 70th birthday dinner last Wednesday. Mr. Keith is a living example of temperance. As he was passing the corner at the Jordan House, where once stood the old brick hotel a strikingly vivid picture came to Mr. Keith, and he remarked to a News representative, "when I first came to Cloverport fifty years ago, I boarded at that hotel and went to school with six other boys about my age of well known families. At nights we would go into the saloon which stood there (pointing to the site on which is built Mr. Curt Weatherholt's store) and play games as to who should pay for our drinks of wine and other decoctions. All of us had plenty of money and lived high. This ran on for awhile. After a few years I married and left off my frivolities. The other six boys continued, and drank more and more as they grew older. And what is the result? All of them are dead now. Some dying at an early age, as the result of drink. The others soon passed away confirmed drunkards and useless men. I say, young man, leave whisky alone. It will kill you. I know it. I have seen enough sin committed in my seventy years as the result of whisky to curse a town; I have seen this demon attack the very best straws of many a mother, and now young man, take my advice, leave whisky alone."

These words coming from 80 respected a man as Mr. J. E. Keith should be heeded by every boy. The results of intemperance he makes plain and the result of temperance, he himself is an example. We doubt if there is a man in the county who can stand more manual exercise for the same length of time than Mr. Keith. At 70 years of age he is as strong as a young man. To ride a horse is mere play for him, and a half day or even a day in the saddle is a common occurrence in his program of life.

Life Guards.

The Life Guards are two regiments of cavalry forming part of the British household troops. They are gallant soldiers, and every loyal British heart is proud of them.

Not only the King's household, but yours, ours, everybody's should have its life guard. The need of them is especially great when the greatest foes of life, diseases, find allies in the very elements as cold, influenza, catarrh, the grip, and pneumonia do in the stormy month of March. The best way that we know of to guard against these diseases is to have the system with Hood's Sarsaparilla—the greatest of all life guards. It removes the conditions in which these diseases make their most successful attack, gives vigor and tone to all the vital organs and functions, and insures a genial warmth to the blood. Remove the weaker the system the greater the exposure to disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the system strong.

1904 Crops Sold.

The 1904 crop of barley tobacco pool at Hawesville has been sold, and the money will be ready on and after Monday for distribution to those entitled to same. The prices are said to have been good.—Clarion.

Women's Kidneys.

Women are more often afflicted with kidney disorders than men, but attribute the symptoms to disease peculiar to their sex, while in reality the kidneys are deranged. Nervousness, head ache, puffiness of dark circles under the eyes, pain in the back, are signs of kidney trouble that must not be ignored, or a serious malady will result. Foley's Kidney Cure has restored the health of thousands of weak, nervous, broken down women. It stops irregularities and strengthens the urinary organs. It purifies the blood and benefits the whole system. A. R. Fisher.

Fifteen Indictments.

Fifteen indictments against officers of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company were handed down by the grand jury in New York. Those indicted are Frederick A. Braham, president; George D. Eldridge, first vice president, and George Barnhart, second vice president. The grand jury probably will enter upon a general investigation of insurance affairs.

ST. LOUIS LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Reported by Evans-Snyder-Buel Co.,
Live Stock Commission Agent.
(Special to the News.)

National Stock Yards, Ill., March 7.—Light runs of cattle Monday indicated a stronger market and a few of our early sales show did a little advance, however, when it became evident the packers were not anxious to increase their already over supply of dressed beef the market settled down to slow steady basis as compared with the decline noted the latter part of last week and continued in the unsatisfactory condition until today when such beef steers as are selling from $4.00 to $4.75 are 10 to 15 lower than a week ago and the better kinds, those ranging from $4.80 to $5.50 are 15 to 25 lower.

A moderate run of butcher stuff met with a weak demand at unevenly lower values,—anywhere from 10 to 25 cents below a week ago. The bulk of the fair to good headers sold from $4.00 to $4.50 and coppers of the same description $3.25 to $3.90. Live calves took a jump skyward and touched the $8.50 per cent mark.

As has been the case each week since the latter part of January a new "high" has been reached on hogs. Several loads sold at $6.50 and lots of good goods going at $6.40. Good 150 lb hogs sold up to $6.40 while the bulk of the good ones under 150 lb sold from $6.15 to $6.25 and best pigs at $5.65, although most of the pigs sold at $5.00 to $5.25.

Receipts of sheep continue light. Colorado lambs are selling from $6.25 to $6.75,—bulk around $6.50. Good native sheep sold up to $6.50 and good western ewes on the stocker order at $4.25.

We would appreciate hearing from any reader of the News as to the amount of live stock being prepared for market, including names of those who have stock for shipment and conditions generally appertaining to the live stock industry.

Cured Hemorrhages of the Lungs.

"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Ake, of Wood, Ind. "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take Foley's Honey and Tar, and my lungs are now as sound as a bell. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough and heals the lungs, and prevents serious results from a cold. Refuse substitutes. A. R. Fisher.

FOUR MORE TRAINS TO PASS TOWN.

With the advent of the L., H. and St. L. railroad trains into the Tenth street station about the middle of April, the L. and N. railroad will inaugurate a system of through service between Knoxville, Tenn., and St. Louis by the way of Louisville and the Henderson route from Louisville to Evansville. No plans for such through service have been completed, but they have been in contemplation for some months and the final arrangement will be completed as soon as the Henderson route connections over the new line from West Point to Louisville are completed.

According to the present ideas, two trains each way will be run through from Knoxville to St. Louis, about twenty or twenty two hours being required to make the trip. The trains will be operated from Knoxville over the L. and N. through Jellico, Lebanon and Louisville, and will connect at Evansville with the Nashville-St. Louis trains giving through service.

It is planned to make the trains operate direct and the service will be in addition to the two St. Louis trains operated daily by the L., H. and St. L. The route laid out for the L. and N. Henderson route trains is about the same distance as that of any other trains operated by other roads from the Knoxville territory.

Although plans have not been completed for the entrance of Henderson route trains into Tenth street station, it is believed by the officials of the line that the extension from West Point to Louisville will be ready for use about April 1. Although a few light freight trains have been operated over the extension during the winter, the roadbed has not been generally used. As the ballasting has just been completed, and this will be allowed to settle before the regular trains are operated over the branch. Several slight changes in the time table will be made when the extension is opened, but these changes will not materially affect the operation of trains.—Wednesday Courier-Journal.

The best way to rid the system of a cold is to evacuate the bowels. Kenn edy's Laxative Honey and Tar acts as a pleasant yet effectual cathartic of the bowels. It cleans the head, cuts the phlegm out of the throat, strengthens the bronchial tubes, relieves coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough etc. Sold by all druggists.

The New Church Assured.

Solicitors for the building fund of the proposed new Christian church are now at work and are meeting with splendid success. Dr. V. O. Standish, Rev. Hudspeeth and George Bentley pledge $100 each; Thomas and James Ireland, of Skillman, $150 each. Numerous smaller amounts, of course, will be given. The Messrs. Ireland, we understand, will also donate a handsome Memorial Window to the building in honor of their father and mother. With the fund of over $600, brought into the organization by the Baptist element, this makes the amount now voted above $1,000, and there is no doubt of the new building going up. Several locations are being considered, but none has been agreed on.—Clarion.
